VOLUME LXX. GRENADA, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, MARCH 16, 1923. NUMBER 43

TERRORIZING WIND-STORM LAST SUNDAY

Smoke Stacks Blown Down. Country Church and School House. Many Garden Fences. Destruction Is Wrought at Other Places.

The March winds brought to Grenada, and to a large section of the country within several hundred miles of the Gulf, a veritable cyclone last Sunday night.

About 6:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon the wind began to show a velocity that was a bit alarming and by 8:30 the velocity reached the point that buildings were rocked, some blown off their pillows, garden fences gave way and sundry other devastations that follow in the wake of such physical disturbances. In the meantime the rain had begun to fall and the terrors of the wind were intensified by the rain.

One of the plate glass windows at the front of The Sentinel office was blown out. The two smoke stacks at the power plant gave way to the force of the wind about half-way up from the ground, one small home occupied by Mr. Ransom was blown off its blocks, a number of garden fences and a few trees were uprooted—this constituted in brief the main damage in Grenada.

Cavalry Baptist church in "little Texas" was blown down, and so was a school in the McCaulla neighborhood. But happily there were no fatalities reported in or near Grenada. Mr. W. N. Hayward lost his silo; it fell on his barn but fortunately did not kill or injure any of his stock. Many colored people in nearly every community had their garden fences blown down.

The greatest disaster was reported in and near Pinson, Tenn., where a number of people wer killed and a great deal of damage was done to property. Something near 25 were killed and nearly 100 seriously crippled or injured.

The telephone wires were out of commission in nearly every direction the next morning and were for several days. At Pinson, Tenn. the wind did its worst and its path was about 250 yards wide.

March is always the month of winds. The winds come and go but from whence and to where has never yet been answered. There is always more or less apprehension about winds or storms at this season, but it is hoped that the severest for this season has passed.

BOTELER AS TO SUPERVISOR'S DUTIES

Thinks Road Inspection Costing Too Much. Wants to Cut Attorney's Salary. Opposes Making Purchases Witout Competitive Bids. What He Will Try to Do if Made Supervisor.

To The Voters of District 4:

I am a candidate for the office of supervisor from district 4, and in view of the fact that the matter of the finances of the County, the money that is collected and expended, is so largely in the hands of the Board of Supervisors, and the further fact that assessments are camparatively high, and that from one end of the country to the other comes a protest against our tax burdens, I deem it just to the people whom I am seeking to serve and a matter that I am due myself to state in plain, unmistakable terms in a few brief sentences my views in regard to taxes and what I shall attempt to do, if made your Supervisor.

I think it is costing too much to run the County. I think the members of the Board of Supervisors are drawing too much pay. I think road inspection is costing too much.

I think the salary of the County Attorney should be reduced to $25 per month, what it was made in January 1920. I think the Farm Demonstrator is paid too much, and, according to my judgment, no farm demonstrator should be employed unless the people vote to employ one.

I think the Home Economics Agent is being paid too much. I do not think that it is a wise public policy to buy road machinery or any other materials for the County over $50 in value without advertising for competitive bids.

Now then if you elect me, I shall act on this basis. I might add as to road working, that I think that too much of that is done by piece meals—people are sent from one end of the beat oftentimes to the other to do a small piece of work when some one could be had nearer by.

I am seeking the office because I think I can be of service. If these views meet your approval, and you think I mean what I say and that I am capable, I shall appreciate your support, and if elected, I shall do my best to be faithful in all things.

Youry truly,
E. L. BOTELER.

RAYBURN FALLS AND BREAKS HIS ARM

In returning from the preaching service at the First Baptist shurch Sunday night, Mr. A. N. Rayburn, assistant cachier at the Grenada Bank, missed his footing some way and stepped into an open gutter and fell and broke his left arm. He received medical attention at once and was able to be on the streets and at the Bank the following day.

BOSTON NEWSPAPER PRAISES PAT HARRISON

Mississippi's Now Senior Senator Wins New Laurels for His State in Critical Boston. Harrison One of the Big Democrats.

Pat Harrison is just about as well known and just as popular away from home as at home. Offhand, it would seem almost impossible for a Mississippian to break into the indifferent city of Boston, and the more indifferent state of Massachusetts, and take away a full column of one of the strongest newspapers in the state.

But this is just what Pat Harrison has done. "Whiting's Column" is sent out from Washington, and in this only the notables, the men who are doing something, get much notice. On January 31, the following article was carried in The Boston Herald:

"The anticipation with which many members of the United States Senate look forward to the imminent suspension of the ship subsidy bill, or the bill for the adjusted marine compensation as some like to call it, is about on a par with that of the much-quoted gentleman walking from Kittery to Portsmouth who explained to one who accosted him: 'I'm a-goin' over to Portsmouth an' I shall git drunk—an'gosh, how I dread it!' Little progress was made toward the ship subsidy bill today. There was something on the track. It was Pat Harrison, free-speaking Democrat of Mississippi.

"Pat Harrison is the most agreeable filibusterer in public life. He is an engaging thief of time. When we have a hard task to do within 10 hours, we—speaking generally— like to sit and watch the hours whiz past, eight of them, nine of them; and then do the job. What delight in the waste of time. It is a human weakness. Harrison in the Senate embodies the same delight. Here we are, all waiting for the Lenroot rural credits bill to be passed. Then comes the army appropriation bill—the last of the batch of appropriation bills—and after that the deluge, i. e., the ship subsidy discussion. Incidentally, somewhere, somehow, the Borah resolution. That resolution now lurks and gibbers on the table. And meantime here stands, or stood today, Pat Harrison. He is talking—about everything under the sun. He does this well.

"Senator Harrison is the embodiment of courtesy. Not for him the knife-thrusts of Caraway, who can stir the hitherto peaceful, home-loving Republicans to the verge af homicidal mania. Not for him the sarcastic incisions upon the Northern hide, loved by John Sharp Williams. Not for him the thunder and reddened visage of Robinson of Arkansas lusty and roaring Democrat, who orates as from a crimson haze of frenzy. Harrison's is the honeyed way, the broad highway banked with flowers, the path of delight. Some of the flowers are of toxic qualities; the bright foliage may be kin to poison ivy; the trickling springs of eloquence may be deleterious. But the mass effect is not disagreeable. If we must die under the blows of speech, let Harrison be the executioner.

"Scrupulously polite is Harrison. Usually it awakens pleasant response from the beleagured Republican side. Only occasionally does a harrassed Republican retort in anger. Never do harsh rejoinders to the amenities of the Harrisonian speech stir him from his poise, as was stirred Mrs. Higgins upon the occasion when, in the brightness of a summer morning, she greeted her neighbor, Mrs. Doggins. Mrs. Higgins opened blithely:

"Good mornin' to ye, Mrs. Doggins. 'Tis a lovely mornin'; I hope ye'r well?"

"Good mornin'." Mrs Doggins' response lacked warmth.

And Mrs. Higgins, feeling rebuffed in her effort to disseminate sunshine and beneficence, close the incident:

"Not that I care a rap, but just by way of conversation."

"The matter before the Senate was the Lenroot bill, providing ways by which, presumably, the farmers of the country will all be so rich that they will no longer use flivvers but will hire chauffeurs and drive 12-cylinder limousines. This very likely is a plot to nip the Henry Ford presidential chances if any. But Mr. Lenroot regards this as a serious bill; and so it is. It seems to us to be a very good bill, designed to aid and assist very good farmers. If it goes through and works right it won't reduce the republican vote. But Harrison was not opposing the Lenroot bill. He talked about it a little, indicating that a good deal of the credit for farm legislation might belong to the Democratic party. But that was a detail.

"Harrison talked to the Republicans as to friends. He expressed sympathy with them, wept on their shoulders in sorrow for their troubles. 'I don't want to see you disappear altogether,' he cried; 'I don't mind your shrinking a little bit.' Tears came to his voice as he pictured the dreadful possibility of the Democrats being left with no one to oppose. He urged the Republicans to take good care of their President. 'Why don't you tell him what to do?' he asked. 'He doesn't know what to do—or if he does, he doesn't manifest it. Be on the square with your President.' At this point some of the surviving Republicans, unable longer to bear up, left the room, sobbing as they went.

"Lenroot remained. He had to. He was in charge of his bill. He could no more leave the room than an honest mother could leave her child. He even arose and spoke. Mr. Harrison graciously yielding the floor a moment. He pleaded with Harrison to postpone filibuster till after this bill was passed. He said he recognized the Democrats' right to filibuster, but please, oh please, let this dear bill pass! 'I can see,, he said, 'that my remarks have had no effect on him. He's just a hardened political sinner—he's beyond redemption.' Then Mr. Lenroot sat down or fainted. And Mr. Harrison continued the filibuster, going into the history of farm legislation, starting some time in ancient Egyptian burial tombs."

COLORED SCHOOLS HAVE FIELD DAY

Interesting Program At Colored School in Grenada.

On Friday, March 9, the colored schools of Grenada County had their Field Day Meet at the colored school building in Grenada. Various and sundry games were played. There was a potato race, there were sack races, basket and base ball games, the climbing of the greasy pole and other things that go to show that the Grenada school as well as some of those in the County are abreast of the school spirit of the day.

The industrial showing was good. The demonstration by the home science department of the Grenada school reflected most creditably upon the instructor as well as upon the class. The trustees of the City School and the wives of Messrs. Salmon, Kirk and Hoffa and Prof. John Rundle and the Editor of The Sentinel were served an excellent dinner by the home science department. The food was excellently prepared and still more excellently served. The State Supervisor of Home Economics for colored schools was present and made a short talk to those who were served dinners. She emphasized the home science work and urged upon the trustees the making of some additions to the home science equipment.

The leading colored teachers of the County were present. A. H. Henderson, who is president of the Association, was present. Gus has a level head and can always be counted on to do the proper and sensible thing. W. W. Blackburn ,principal of the Grenada colored school, was really the moving spirit behind the meet and to him is largely due the credit for whatever good results the schools of the County may have got out of the meet.

EX-SENATOR MAKES GRATEFUL ACKNOWLEDGMENT TO PEOPLE

John Sharp Williams Sings The Praises of Mississippi. Makes Fine Farewell Official Utterance.

A few days before the adjournment of Congress, March 4, John Sharp Williams issued the following letter in Washington City:

"To the People of Mississippi.

"My Dear Friends:

"I thus address you because next to God and my own immediate family you have been my best and dearest friends. It is now 30 years since I first took an oath of office as one of your Representatives in Congress of the United States. During all that time—nearly half of the Scripturally—designated life of man, I have served, or sought to serve you. That service has been at least honest, faithful and vigilant. The ability of it was, of course, limited by the measure of my own ability; but the good intent and sincerity of it has been measured only by a higher thing—my love for you and for Mississippi.

"The Land We Love"

"Mississippi has been for me not only 'The Land We Live In,' but 'The Land We Love'.

"It is sweet to live in and is worthy of our love. I love its rivers and lakes, and bayous, its valleys and its inhabitants; its history and traditions and ideals; its churches and schools and homes and home-life; its men and women—the very poorest and most illiterate of whom constitute the finest raw material out of which to build up a magnificent cultured manhood and womanhood. As I once said on the floor of the House when a member of that Body, its men can 'neither be bought nor scared', and women are more than worthy of its men. This is true with rare exceptions. Nor am I afraid that its children will fall in courage, honesty or service below the high standard set by their forebears. They are the pledges we give to her future; the hope on which we base our belief in her destiny. I love not only this generation of my people and the next generation growing up to take its place, but its past generations—its great men—from its sturdy and brave pioneers who, amid hardships and poverty and danger, laid the program of our progress to those who grew convincing or eloquent, or both, in Mississippi's name in legislative halls, or who courted for her sake on many a battlefield the sublime nobility of a worthy death. All in her service and in her name, and she is worthy of it all, and of more! You know I have never indulged in the arts of the demagogue; I have loved you too much and trusted you too sincerely to believe that sort of thing—mere mob-flattery— to be necessary to your service or welcome to your best hearts or heads.

People "Wondrous Kind"

"But now that I am retiring and no one can suspect me of any motive of self-advancement, I delight in the opportunity to tell you my love for you and my willing devotion to the advancement of your honor and your best and highest interests. That ever has been the actuating motive behind my attempted service—the star by whose light I have attempted to see my way clearly, and to point out that way to you. That I have fallen below the highest and best many times I know better than you, because you have been to my demerits 'wondrous kind', and to my follies and faults even more than 'a little blind'.

"Whenever I have fallen below the standard that I fain would have set for my endeavor, it has been my fault not yours. You have done your part. You have have given me encouragement, trust, fidelity, affection. You have 'helped up my hands' for me and if I have at times let them drop, the fault was my own. General Lee said at Appomattox 'Men; I have done the best I could for you.' I can not say that, but I can say that there never was a time when I have not loved to aim at the best for you that I could see. At least it was never the heart that fell short of the full measure of service.

No Farewell To Senate

"Many have asked me to make a 'Farewell Address' in the Senate. That requires an egotism approaching megalomania from my standpoint. Really great men, like Washington whose retirement from public service constituted in itself a great historical event, of the utmost importance to the Nation: or like another great man—the greatest Mississippian, Jefferson Davis, when emphasizing the gravity of another historical event—the secession of Mississippi from the old Union, were justified in that sort of thing; but not lesser men, nor men whose role has been acted on a lesser stage.

"I have thought that if I owed any farewell addrses to anybody it was to you, and not to a limited audience of you in a particular place, but to all of you, and thus I have come to write this letter. It requires no undue egotism to write to one's benfactors and friends a letter of gratitude and affection. Its excuse, if it needs any, is the warmth and sincerity which dictate its expressions.

Wants "Troop of Friends"

"I hope that in a green old age, if I live so long, I may have what Shakespeare considered its chief blessing 'troops of friends'—just such as you have been, and that when I come to be buried at the feet of my father and mother I may be able to think that I have not been entirely unworthy of you and of them. I say 'friends just such as you have been,' because your friendship has not been gained by flattery, nor lip service, nor by your requiring, or by my consenting to sacrifice honest conviction or sacred sentiment.

"You and I are, in the main, of the Old Stock that gave to the world Magna Charta, the bill of rights, the petition of right, liberty regulated and protected by law, free parliamentsand local self-government. Translated for perpetuation on this side of the Atlantic they became the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States, and the Sovereignty of the several States within the spheres of their reserved rights. Let us remember our institutions, to hold them sacred, and our race to honor its blood, doing our part in its long history continued in us, to keep the race and its ideals in the 'foremost files of time'.

"He who is true in these things 'can not then be false in anything.'

"Lest of all can he be false to duty as an American or as a citizen of the world, seeking by cooperation with other nations and races—'brothers all'—to secure the peace of the earth, that 'Commonwealth of us all,' because the common abiding place of us all. Our duties are to the world as well—if not as much and as primarily—as to ourselves. It is well 'to know our rights, and knowing dare maintain them,' but better yet to know our duties, and trustingly dare to perform them.

"I am, with every expression of regard,

"Very truly, your friend,
'JOHN SHAP WILLIAMS."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank those who were so kind and thoughtful of our dear Father and Husband. May God add His richest blessings unto each one of you.

Very sincerely,
Mrs. J. L. Acee and Family.

LATIMER MOVES TO SAN PEDRO

The many friends of Mr. H. W. Latimer and family, The Sentinel feels sure, will be interested to know that they have moved from Porterville, Calif., to 278 O'Farrell Street, San Pedro, 23 miles from Los Angeles, where they have bought a home. Mr. Latimer has had an orange farm at Porterville and must have realized very handsomely on it.

REVIVAL MEETING AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. Mr. Harrel Doing Some Fine Preaching. Every Patient Listener is Rewarded Who Attends Any Preaching Service.

The revival meeting announced for the First Baptist church began last Sunday. The minister, Rev. F. J. Harrell of Dyersburg, Tenn., did not arrive until after the noon hour Monday.

He is showing himself to be a preacher of great force and power. His messages are appealing. They are soul-stirring. They deal with practical affairs in a religious way, and likewise deal with religious affiars in a practical way. It is indeed hard for one to sit under the sound of any earnest preacher's voice without feeling that some gospel shots have been fired that specially fits his life. Man is a wayward animal, he has ways that are peculiar. He needs to watch himself a great deal more than he needs to watch anybody else. The preaching service that tends to make one take an inventory of himself, to apply the yard stick to see how far he has gone from the line of rectitude and right—if he does that, and it will do that for any one who will not lock his mind and heart against it—does the individual good, it does the community good. Mr. Farrell's messages are those that appeal to the best in man. They are thoughtful deliverances.

The singer, Prof. Carnett, is greatly pleasing his hearers. He is a fine soloist. His musi is uplifting. It takes the mind over hill and dale and back to the scenes of childhood. It caries the mind to the mountain top where one can almost touch the very curtains of the Celestial City.

The congregations are good and are increasing day by day. The pastor, Rev. W. E. Farr, is delighted and is leaving nothing undone to make the meeting one of the greatest ever held at the church.

CHARLES TRIMBLE DIED IN MEMPHIS

Mr. Charles Trimble died in Memphis last Friday night. His remains were brought to Grenada on train No. 3, Saturday, and after funeral services conducted at the Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Cunningham, were carried to Odd Fellows' cemetery and laid to rest in the lot where all that was mortal of his father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Trimble, were deposited some years ago.

As noted in these columns last week, Mr. Trimble was stricken with paralysis. He never rallied. He was found in his room Wednesday morning before his death in an unconscious condition. For about a half a dozen years he had been a trusted employe as chief night watchman of one of the leading industries of Binghamton, a suburb of Memphis. When he did not arise Wednesday morning, as usual, some one was sent to his room to call him, but no response came from within, so an entrance was made into the room to find him in a paralyzed condition.

Mr. Trimble was born and reared in district 5, about one mile east of what is now known as the town of Holcomb. He was very nearly 65 years old. As a youth he was popular with those who knew him best. He has been referred to as a lovable boy. He was always accomodating. He seemed to take pleasure in doing a real kindness. As the days passed and as the years ripened his life, he grew more and more thoughtful; the generosity of his nature multiplied. His natural impulses were always good. He had a varied experience. He was married but once. His wife was Miss Fanny LeFlore, a daughter of Col. J. D. LeFlore. Some thirty years ago she died and left him an only son, "Jim", who was reared by his parents. Jim grew to manhood; was a happy natured boy; was even more so as a man. He died of the flu during the World War, and was so much loved in Grenada, that the American Legion Post was named for him. Thus it was that the father was left alone in the world; his only sister, Mrs. C. H. Guy, lived at Asheville, N. C. and had her special cares and duties as well as many sorrows in the death of several of her children.

Mr. Trimble was a frequent visitor to Grenada, after going to Memphis. Almost exactly one month before his death, he visited Grenada, and seemed to realize that the end was near. He had never before made any religious pretentions, but while here, he sought the pastor of the Presbyterian church and made a profession of religion and was received into the church one month before, lacking one day, his burial. This was a matter that furnished consolation to his relatives and friends, and showed that the good seed sown by his saintly mother had never wasted away but bore the coveted fruit. Indeed those acquainted with the better nature of Charley Trimble, as he was familiarly called, those who knew his kindness of heart and readiness at any and all times to serve others, often marveled that he had not long ago taken this important step.

He has but one close relative, Mrs. Guy, to survive him. She went to him at Memphis as soon as she could after being advised of his condition and remained with him to the end. She accompanied his remains to Grenada and saw his body laid away to await the resurrection morn. The Sentinel tenders her sincere sympathy.

NEW MASONIC TEMPLE BUILDING

Committee Makes Report That Urges That Immediate Steps Be Taken Looking To Erecting of a New Building.

At a regular meeting of the Masonic Lodge in Grenada held Monday night, last, it is understood that a special committee, which had been named on the advisability of beginning at an early day the work of constructing a new Masonic Temple on the lot on Main street immediately south across from the Post Office building, made its report, and that the report also dealt with means for securing the necessary funds.

There was an unusually large attendance of the membership. It had been announced that the matter of erecting the proposed building would come up, hence the presence of such a large per cent of the membership.

It is stated that the tentative plan counts upon raising the funds for the new temple by subscription among the membership. There are 230 members of the local Lodge. The present building may or may not be sold. If it is sold, of course it is contemplated that funds derived from the sale will be used in erecting the new temple.

Whether or not the plans outlined Monday night by some of the more enthusiastic and zealous members of the Lodge will result in raising the required funds, seems to be doubted by some of the more conservative members who suggest that with the subscriptions, whatever they may be used as a nest egg, the balance of the funds can be borrowed by some desirable method and at a low rate of interest. Anyway, it is manifest that the most active members of the Lodge have their hearts set on a new temple, and it is believed that these, in consultation with all their brethren, will find some satisfactory way to erect the new temple, which some say, "must be ready for occupation by December 25, 1925."

It is contemplated that he new temple shall be an imposing structure, one that will do honor to the Masonic craft and one that the whole community will feel a pride in. The original plans contemplate a place for community gatherings and a sort of reading room. It will be in one of the most desirable places in Grenada. There could hardly have been secured a more desirable lot or one that would have been more nearly a central point.

It seems safe to assert that it may be gathered as a result of the action taken Monday night, that the first foundation of a splendid new Masonic Temple was laid in Grenada, and that this was done on the night of March 12, 1923.

GORE SPRINGS SOCIETY TO GIVE PLAY

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Gore Springs community will present on next Friday night, March 23. at the Gore Springs Consolidated School building a four act play entitled, "The Dust of the Earth". The cast is composed of local talent and those in the play are busily engaged in rehearsels so that they may be perfect in their parts on the night of the play.

Some splendid music will be rendered on the occasion. A small admission charge will be made and the proceeds are for the benefit of the church. The people of Gore Springs extend a cordial invitation to the people of Grenada to be with them when the play is presented.

FRED SULLENS WILL DELIVER ADDRESS TONIGHT

Capt. Frederick Sullens has accepted the invitation of the Laymen of the Presbyterian church to address them at a short business meeting tonight (Friday). In view of the fact that the purpose of the meeting pertains wholly to plans regarding certain work in the Presbyterian church and to the further fact that the revival meeting is in progress at the First Baptist church, it will not be possible to give Mr. Sullens that audience that he would have under ordinary circumstances. There are a great number in Grenada who would be delighted to hear Capt. Sullens, there are many here who are more than anxious to hear him, but this will have to be arranged for at another day.

Capt. Sullens will arrive in Grenada on train No. 4 from Jackson this (Friday) afternoon. He is one of the State's leading characters. Whatever he does he does wholeheartedly and without reservation. He is proving himself to be as great a force in the church as he has been at the editorial helm of the Daily News.

LESSON FOR MARCH 18

JESUS CRUCIFIED

LESSON TEXT—Luke 23:33-36.

GOLDEN TEXT—He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him, and with His stripes we are healed.—Isaiah 53:5.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Psa. 22:1-21; I Cor. 1:23, 24; Gal. 6:14.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus on the Cross.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus on the Cross.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Our Salvation Costs.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Meaning of Christ's Death.

We now face the greatest tragedy of all time. No record in the annals of history approaches it. It is the very climax of all history. Though unique in its blackness, from it flows streams of liberty and life for all the world. Let every teacher have the personal experience of Christ's death for him, and then get his pupils to see that Christ's death was instead of their own death.

I. The Place of Crucifixion (v. 33).

They led Him away to Calvary, a hill north of Jerusalem resembling a skull. Calvary is the Latin word and Golgotha is the Hebrew. This is a significant name for the place where man's redemption was accomplished. The skull is an apt picture of man's condition as the result of sin—life and intelligence are gone, leaving only the dark empty cavern which once contained them. Jesus was not crucified in the city for He was to suffer without the gate (Heb. 13:12).

II. His Companions on the Cross (v. 33).

Two malefactors were crucified with Him. Their names are not given. This is a fulfillment of the Scriptures. "He was numbered with the transgressors." (Isaiah 53:12).

III. His Forgiving Love (v. 34).

He cried, "Father, forgive them." He doubtless had in mind not only the soldiers who acted for the government, but the Jews who in their blindness were ignorant of the enormity of their crime. He had no hatred in His heart. He yearned for their salvation.

IV. The World Revealed (vv. 34-43).

Jesus Christ on the cross is the supreme touchstone laying bare the heart of the world. Take a cross section of the world at any time since Christ was crucified and representatives of their classes were found around Jesus on the cross. The cross is the judgment of this world (John 12:31).

1. The Covetous (v. 34). They gambled for His seamless robe right under the cross where He was dying. This represents those whose primary interest in Christ is a means to get gain.

2. The Indifferent (v. 35). The people stood beholding. The great mass of the world gaze upon the crucified Christ with stolid indifference.

3. The Scoffers (vv. 35-39). (1) The rulers reviled Him for His claim to being a Savior. They wanted a Savior, but not a crucified Savior. Many today are religious, but have only contempt for a salvation which centers in a blood atonement. (2) The soldiers reviled Him for claiming to be a king. The title, "King of the Jews" had been placed over him in bitter irony, but it was true, for by right of the Davidic covenant He shall be King over Israel (II Samuel 7:8-16). (3) The Impenitent Thief (v. 39). This brutal man joins in reviling the Savior even when he was under condemnation.

4. The Penitent (vv. 40-43). The conscious sinner who discerned the heart of the Savior prayed for mercy. The salvation of this penitent thief is a remarkable picture of the saving power of Christ. The man confessed his sin as against God and cried to Jesus for salvation. He saw that the dying man was the forgiving God. The fact that he acknowledged his sin as against God showed that he was penitent. His request for Christ to remember him when He came into His kingdom shows that he recognized that the one who was dying on the cross was making atonement for sin and that he would come to reign as King. His salvation was immediate. Christ said, "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."

V. The Death of Christ (vv. 40-46).

So shocking was the crime that nature threw around the Son of God a shroud to hide Him from the Godless crowd. Darkness was upon the land at noonday. When the price of sin was paid He cried with a loud voice showing that He still had vitality—that His death was not through exhaustion but by His sovereign will.

Manners.

Manners are the happy ways of doing things.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Time.

Time devours all human things, and it is but fitting that we should snatch something from it in our turn, which may turn to account in life eternal.—St. Vincent of Lerins.

A Cheerful Face.

A cheerful face is nearly as good for an invalid as healthy weather.—Franklin.

Taking Our Colors.

We take our colors, chameleon-like, from each other.—Chamfort.

BEAUTIFUL SNOW

This poem, which has been pronounced one of the finest ever written, has a sad history. During the early part of the Civil War, one dark Saturday night in midwinter, there died in the Commercial Hospital in Cincinnati a young woman, over whose head only two and twenty summers had passed. She had once been possessed of an enviable share of beauty and had been, as she herself says, "flattered and sought for the charm of face;" but alas, upon her fair brow was written that terrible word, "prostitute." Once the pride of respectable parents, her first wrong step was the small beginning of the "same old story over again," which has been only the life history of thousands. Highly educated, and with accomplished manners, she might have shone in the best society; but the evil hour that proved her ruin was the door of childhood, and having spent a young life of disgrace and shame, the poor friendless one died the melancholy death of a broken-hearted outcast.

Among her personal effects was found in manuscript, "The Beautiful Snow," which was immediately carried to Enos B. Reed, a gentleman of culture and literary tastes, who was at that time editor of the National Union. In the columns of that paper, on the morning of the day following the girl's death, the poem appeared in print for the first time. When the paper containing the poem came out on Sunday morning, the body of the victim had not received burial. The attention of Thomas Buchanan Read, one of the first American poets, was so taken with its stirring pathos that he immediately followed the corpse to its final resting-place. Such are the plain facts concerning her, whose "Beautiful Snow" shall long be remembered as one of the brightest gems in American literature.

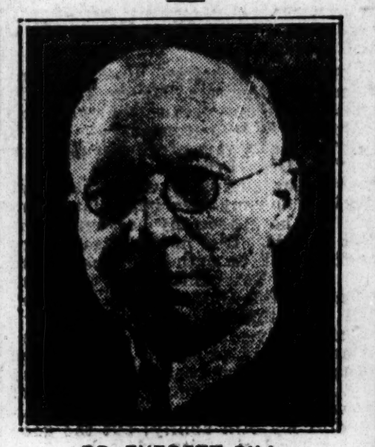
O the snow, the beautiful snow,
Filling the sky and the earth below,
Over the housetops, over the street,
Over the heads the people you meet,
Dancing, flirting, skipping along,
Beautiful snow, it can do no wrong.
Flying to kiss a fair lady's cheek,
Clinging to lips in a frolicsome freak,
Beautiful snow from the heavens above,
Pure as an angel and gentle as love,
O, the snow, the beautiful snow!
How the flakes gather and laugh as they go!
Whirling about in their maddening fun,
It plays in its glee with everyone.
Chasing, laughing, hurrying by,
It lights on the face and it sparkles the eye;
And playful dogs with a bark and a bound,
Snap at the crystals that eddy around.
The town is alive, and its heart is aglow,
To welcome the coming of beautiful snow,
How wildly the crowd goes swaying along,
Hailing each other with humor and song!
How the gay sleds like meteors flash by,
Bright for the moment, then lost to the eye!
Ringing, swinging, dashing they go,
Over the crust of the beautiful snow;
Snow so pure when it falls from the sky
As to make one regret to see it lie,
To be trampled and tracked by the thousand feet,
Till it blends with the filth in the horrible street.
Once I was pure as the snow; but I fell—
Fell like the snowflakes, from heaven to hell;
Fell to be tramped as filth in the street;
Fell to be scoffed; to be spit on and beat;
Pleading, cursing, dreading to die;
Selling my soul to whoever would buy.
Dealing in shame for a morsel of bread;
Hating the living, and fearing the dead.
Merciful God! have I fallen so low?
And yet I was once like the beautiful snow,
With an eye like a crystal; a heart like its glow.
Once I was loved for my innocent grace,
Flattered and sought for the charm of the face,
Father, mother, sister, all,
God and myself I have lost by my fall.
The veriest wretch that goes shivering by,
Will make a wide sweep lest I wander too nigh.
For all that is on or about me I know,
There's nothing as pure as the beautiful snow.
How strange it should be that this beautiful snow
Should fall on a sinner with nowhere to go!
How strange it would be ere the night comes again,
If the snow and ice struck my desperate brain:
Fainting, freezing, dying alone,
Too wicked for prayer, too weak for a moan
To be heard in the streets of the crazy town;
Gone mad in the joy of the snow coming down.
To be and to die in my terrible woe,
With a bed and a shroud of the beautiful snow.
Helpless and soul as the trampled snow,
Sinner, despair not, Christ stoopeth low
To rescue the soul that is lost in its sin,
To raise it to life and enjoyment again.
Groaning, bleeding, dying for thee,
The Crucified hung on the accursed tree;
His accents of mercy fell soft on thine ear;
Is there mercy for me? Will He heed my prayer?
O God! in the stream that for sinners did flow,
Wash me and I shall be whiter than snow —Ex.

BAPTISTS COLLECT $38,918,000 CASH

Growth of Denominational Activities in Every Direction Is Indicated as Result of Forward Program

LARGE ADVANCES ARE MADE

REPORT ON CONTRIBUTIONS TO 75 MILLION CAMPAIGN ISSUED BY HEADQUARTERS OFFICE



DR. EVERETT GILL
European Representative Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

Up to January 1, 1923, Southern Baptists had paid in cash on the 75 Million Campaign, their five-year program for the advancement of the general missionary, educational and benevolent activities of the denomination the sum of $38,918,191.10, according to a report issued by the general headquarters office.

These contributions have come from the various states and other sources as follows: Alabama, $1,653,739.40; Arkansas, $1,165,153.35; District of Columbia, $142,554.70; Florida, $609,016.02; Georgia, $3,569,516.70; Illinois, $320,482.95; Kentucky, $4,132,039.78; Louisiana, $1,035,640.23; Maryland, $489,494.29; Mississippi, $1,591,011.34; Missouri, $1,537,067.49; New Mexico, $170,998.36; North Carolina, $3,365,330.21; Oklahoma, $1,052,438.20; South Carolina, $3,309,252.60; Tennessee, $2,340,766.77; Texas, $5,002,785.32; Virginia, $4,102,802.12. Special designated funds, Texas, $1,223,640.55; New Mexico, $403,072.68; Louisiana, $105,100; Illinois, $148,591.11; Tennessee, $192,853.25; Oklahoma, $59,000; received direct by Home Mission Board, $15,340; received from special sources by Foreign Mission Board, $86,103; contributed by native churches on foreign field and expended by them directly on their work there, $1,003,396.68.

Indicating something of the progress which the impetus of the Campaign has brought to various phases of denominational effort in the South, it is reported that during the three years of the Campaign period that have expired, Southern Baptists have had 150,000 more baptisms than they did for the three years immediately preceding the Campaign; organized 3,000 more new Sunday schools with 400,000 new pupils; enhanced the value of their local church property by $33,000,000; increased their contributions to local causes by $22,000,000; gave $18,938,862 more to missions and benevolences, and advanced their contributions to all causes by $43,480,490 during the three years of the Campaign over what they gave to all causes for the three years immediately preceding the Campaign.

Gains in Special Fields.

The Campaign has enabled the various state mission boards to greatly enlarge their programs of state and associational missions within their respective boundaries, it is pointed out; made it possible for the Home Mission Board to complete its $1,000,000 Church Building Loan Fund, extend its work among the foreigners, Indians and Negroes, administer 134,382 baptisms, secure 218,371 additions to the local churches, provide larger equipment for its system of 38 mountain mission schools, establish the Southern Baptist Tuberculosis Sanatorium, and greatly increase its work in other directions.

Some other gains in the homeland include the better equipment and maintenance of the more than 80 academies, colleges and seminaries other than the mountain schools; increasing the number of Baptist hospitals from 18 to 20, and providing better equipment and maintenance for all of them; increasing the number of Baptist hospitals from 12 to 20 and beginning the erection of three others, at the same time all the older ones have been better equipped; while the number of aged ministers helped has been doubled and the stipend given each has been greatly increased.

Mission Work Extended.

In the realm of foreign missions the Foreign Mission Board has been enabled to send out about 250 new missionaries, employ over 500 additional native workers, greatly increase the equipment in the way of church buildings, chapels, schools, hospitals, publishing houses and mission residences in the older fields of China, Japan, Africa, Italy, Brazil, Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay, Chile and Mexico, and open up new work in Spain, Jugo-Slavia, Hungary, Roumania, Russia, Palestine and Siberia. In the territory now occupied by the Foreign Mission Board there is a total population of 900,000,000, or more than half the people of the world.

Due to the enlargement of the missionary program in Europe the board has been compelled to station a general representative there in the person of Dr. Everett Gill, who has general oversight of the work on the continent and maintains his headquarters at Lausanne, Switzerland.

WHAT INFLUENCES A CUSTOMER

Merchants, advertising counselors, manufacturers and business analysts always have contended that the nationally advertised product enjoys the quickest and—naturally—the greatest turnover.

There have been, and likely always will be individuals who will dispute this even though facts and figures give absolute proof that such is the case.

They believe that advertising is a waste of money and that the customer buys not on reputation but by chance.

Recently the National Retailers Association conducted an unbiased census to satisfy themselves on this point.

They found that when two similar articles—one advertised—are placed on sale at the same price that 87.6 times the customer buys advertised goods.

3.6 times the customer buys unadvertised goods.
8.8 times the customer has no preference.

And further, that when the unadvertised product is the lower priced of the two

60.6 times the customer buys advertised goods.
24.2 times the customer buys unadvertised goods.
15.2 times the customer has no preference.

Representative dealers in cities were selected for the test. So the result mirrors the buying mind of the customer whether he buys in New York or in California.

Honest merchandising, honest advertising and honest salesmanship combine to make the difference between turnovers and leftovers.

The customer buys on reputation and quality—whether the product is milk or overalls. Price isn't such a vital factor.

His eyesight and taste have improved in the last ten years.

So has his judgment.—December Merchant and Manufacturer.

NEED FOR CO-OPERATION.

The following are some excerpts from a published statement recently made by J. B. Lusk, secretary State Chamber of Commerce, and R. H. Pate, executive head. What is said is much in line with what has appeared from time to time in these columns. What is said also shows that there are a whole lot of people thinking that "Mississippi is not all right". However much parents may love their child, and regardless of the brightness of the little fellow's mind and the quickness of his perception, the parents would be worse than foolish, they would act the part of criminals, if, when the little fellow became ill, regardless of the cause, they did not summons a physician and do all in their power to alleviate his suffering and save his life. To the credit of many of the leading men of the State, they are beginning to realize that Mississippi is sick—there are differences of opinion as to what brought about its illness, but the idea that something is wrong, not with what Nature has done in the resources it gave the State but in what the people are doing with what Nature has lavishly given them. The excerpts are worth reading and go to show what is being attempted in the way of manufacturing enterprises, and with assurances of success, in some parts of the State:

"The situation as it presents itself in Mississippi today is one in which the call for co-operation is so urgent that no one would for a moment question its wisdom."

"We have deluded ourselves too long with the mistaken idea that the world already knew of the great advantages which we had to offer here—when, in fact, it was totally uninformed.

"It profits us little to stand idly by and ask ourselves the question, why the world does not come our way, when we have as yet made no practical effort to induce it to come."

"In the last few years instability has stalked about from one end of the world to the other. We are now in a period of re-adjustment and reinstatement as far as possible of enduring standards."

"More than this, it is absolutely necessary that the people and business interests of the state work together and check the flow of capital and population from our midst, as revealed by government reports, and instead begin to bring in new capital and homeseekers to enjoy our opportunities and increase our wealth.

"To sum up some of the pressing duties of the hour, let us consider for a moment how important it is that we should bestir ourselves and try to have some of the cotton mills of New England come our way and locate here among the cotton fields.

"The fifteen cotton mills now operating in this state are all profitable—then why not more?

"Thousands of Mississippians do not know that at Collins there are industries shipping sausage, hams, bacon, canned sweet potatoes, figs, peas, beans, tomatoes, okra, tec., as far west as Los Angeles and San Francisco, as far north as New York and Boston, and as far east as Savannah and Jacksonville.

"Nor did they know that at Laurel an industry is shipping fine tooth paste of its own manufacture all over the country, to Chicago, St. Louis, Boston, New York.

"Moreover, many other commercial commodities are manufactured in this state, which goes to show that we can develop great manufacturing industries here if we only will.

"We are now getting to the point where we can see daylight on the matter of establishing stable and profitable markets for our varied agricultural products.

"The importance of this step in progress may be appreciated when it is remembered that under the old loose and disjointed system of marketing our products, the waste and slack entailed a loss of hundreds of millions of dollars, which represented the difference between poverty and affluence for our people.

"When it is remembered that 13,000,000 acres of idle cut-over land await either re-forestation or agricultural settlement, does it not seem duce worthy and industrious homeduce worthy and industious homeseekers to come our way?

"In point of natural resources, it is stated by Dr. E. N. Lowe, state geologist, that in cement limestone alone we have a great manufacturing material, as is also the case with our fine clays from which pottery, tiling, piping, house ornamentations, etc., can be made. From bauxite, a specially fine clay, aluminum can be made.

"A great source of wealth for the future will be the pine stumps now seen on every hand from which turpentine, rosin, creosote, and oils will be produced at great profit to the state.

"Another great source of wealth for the future will be wood pulp or paper mills making paper, cardboard, interior decorations, etc., from cast off slabs, limbs, tree tops, etc.

And what of our immense supply and great variety of hardwoods as well as vast store of pine yet available—from which furniture, wagons, implements and an almost endless variety of useful articles can be manufactured?

"In view of the fact that billions of dollars have gone to waste in the past in this state from the loss in cast off slabs burned up around our saw mill industries, it will be somewhat compensating to know of the great wealth yet untouched for the future, which will be enjoyed by the next generation."

FAMILY PRAYERS

You say you are "busy this morning
In the maelstrom of family cares,
And husband must rush to the office,
So there isn't a moment for prayers."

Then the children are sent to the school-room,
And the grind of the day thus begins,
With no word from God's Book to remember,
Nor the echo of strengthening hymns.

What wonder the burdens are heavy,
And the hours seem irksomely long!
What wonder that rash words are spoken,
And that life seems discordant and wrong!

And at even, discouraged and wearied,
You carlessly go to your rest,
Forgetting that Jesus is waiting
To pillow your Head on His breast.

He longs for a word of thanksgiving,
And to hear your love spoken again;
He asks to review the day's record,
And to cleanse it of blotches and stain.

But if you forget Him so often,
Sometime you may knock at His Gate,
And awaiting the summons to enter,
You may hear, "You are praying too late."
—By Laura Hubbard Jaccard.

LET ME SERVE IN MY PLACE

I have heard of a house by the side of the road
Where the races of men go by,
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Even so are you and I.
And the man in the house by the side of the road
Was helpful, and kindly and good,
And the toilers who passed on the highways of life
Were oft gladdened with shelter and food.

O, he sang when they sang, and wept with their grief,
And his heart shared their burdens and pains;
Though sometimes he longed to pass with the crowd
And share in its pleasures and gains.
But he stayed in his place, nor grumbled at all,
For this was his lodestar—his goal—
'Twas the Master who placed him this service to give
In his house by the side of the road.

And I heard of a man who his service would give
As he walked with the crowd, day by day.
And he cheered them and helped them to carry their load
As he walked by their side in the way.
A cup of cold water he gave to the faint;
And sore wounds of others ha healed;
Still others there were with various needs
That to this man's kind heart appealed.

And his heart was glad as he journeyed along
Bearing loads in the heat of the day.
For the Master has said: "Serve me here in the road
Instead of the house by the way.
Bearing loads in the heat of the day.
Utter words of good cheer to the weak;
Comfort those who are left far behind in the rush,
And words of encouragement speak."

For some must abide in a sheltering house
That stands by the side of the road;
And others must trudge where the throng presses thick,
But each helps to carry the load.
And the one in the house and the one in the way—
Both parts of an infinite plan—
To humanity's needs they minister both,
And each is a friend to man.

Then let us not boast of the service we give,
Nor think most important our place.
We'll know why He fixed us, each in our nich,
When we look in the Master's face.
So, whether we live by the side of the road
Or walk with the crowd in the way,
We'll each do our best for our brothers in need,
And both will the Master repay.
—Mrs. Vernon J. Stone in Tupelo Journal.

Says She Could Shout Aloud In Thankfulness

Another Arkansas Woman Expresses Gratitude for Her Restoration To Health.

"I feel so grateful to Stella Vitae for restoring my health that I could shout aloud in thankfulness for this great blessing," declared Mrs. Walter Bledsoe, a resident of Willow, Ark. "Female troubles brought on a nervous breakdown," continued Mrs. Bledsoe, and I was in such a miserable weak condition that I was hardly fit for a thing. Those awful headaches like to have run me distracted and my back hurt like a sharp knife was sticking in me. Then all through my body in the region of my stomach were terrible griping pains, and even my legs would get to aching so I couldn't stand on them.

"From time to time I would be siezed with dizzy spells when I would just turn as blind as a bat and almost tumble over in my tracks. My nerves went all to pieces and I would get excited over the least little thing and would burst out crying.

"Soon after starting on Stella Vitae I felt I was getting better and stronger and those awful pains and aches began to leave me and I could control myself and sleep lots better. Stella Vitae has done me just worlds of good and I think it is the best thing in the world for suffering women."

Note—Stella Vitae may be obtained from any druggist and is sold upon the positive guarantee that the purchase price will be refunded if it fails to bring relief. Druggists are supplied from the Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Co., Memphis., Tenn, Distributors.—Adv.

Action, Action, Action, Marks It

Rimrock Trail

By J. Allan Dunn

It takes you into the wild places of the West that still are near a railroad and introduces you to the romance, intrigue and adventure that there abound. Whether in mining camp, town, on a cattle ranch or among the mysteries of desert and the wonders of mountains, it keeps moving at a high rate of speed.

So much happens in a brief space of time that the author has little opportunity for musing. However, aside from telling a stirring tale, he does contrive to get in much humor, character and a tender love story.

New Millions Are Coming To Mississippi To Expand Your Telephone System

IN a previous advertisement we reviewed the records and plans of the Cumberland Telephone Company as a whole, showing that the development during 1922 in this section was tremendous and set new high records; that the total investment at the beginning of 1923 was more than $50,300,000 and that thousands of new telephones were added.

Mississippi's telephone growth last year also established new records and required the best efforts of a splendid organization.

The gross additions to the telephone plant in Mississippi during 1922 amounted to $474,716.00, all of which was new money secured from investors or borrowed. 8,074 new telephones were installed and 5,285 were discontinued, leaving a net gain of 2,789 telephones.

There are 132 Cumberland exchanges in Mississippi with 43,049 telephones and connecting with 8,787 telephones of other companies in the state.

Approximately 341,000 local calls were handled daily in Mississippi and there were approximately 2,716,115 originating long distance calls during the year.

Mississippi's telephone system contains about 60,316 miles of wire of which 38,574 miles are used for long distance purposes, and there are 190,829 poles.

The telephone plant in Mississippi represents an investment of $8,548,790 and is built, maintained and operated by 1,010 employes whose annual pay roll is $819,524.

These workers all live in Mississippi and most of them are native born. They spend their wages here at home for food, clothing, rent, light, heat and taxes just as you spend your salary.

The plans for the growth and development of the telephone system in Mississippi for the next five years are such that the skill and energy of the telephone organization will be taxed to the utmost.

The magnitude of the plans may be imagined when it is stated that $4,179,700 of new money will be required in Mississippi alone during the next five years.

In this state it is estimated there will be a net growth of 9,458 new telephones during this period which will mean the installation of 36,961 new telephones and the discontinuance of 27,503. telephones.

This general expansion has already begun. The plans for this year have been made and the necessary capital arranged for, though much will depend upon the ability of the manufacturers to deliver the equipment and material.

The growth of the telephone system in Mississippi during 1923 will require $766,600 in new money, to pay for work which must be done in all sections of the state.

It is estimated that during this year 7,277 new telephones will be installed, 5,396 discontinued, making a net gain of 1,881 telephones for the year.

This accomplishment will give Mississippi a total of more than 44,419 telephones.

The telephone workers in Mississippi approach their big task cheerfully, confident of accomplishing it to your satisfaction.

They are encouraged by your evidence of good will in the fair treatment you have accorded their company and the consideration you have displayed in time of difficulty.

JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS IN RETIREMENT

One is inclined to almost envy John Sharp Williams as he sits back there on that beautiful farm in Yazoo County, away from the turmoil of politics and the tug of strife, where he can drink in what Nature pours forth in abundance and where he can commune with the thoughts and lives of others from that great library of his.

Who will say that he has not acted wisely in laying down public burdens? What he has done is only another splendid testimonial to that judgment and that wisdom and discretion which have marked his public career.

One who is giving his thought, giving the best that is in him, to trying to steer the ship of state into peaceful waters, towards arousing the people to the drift of things social and political, feels, many times, that his efforts have all come to naught and that he had as well drop out and not continue to waste his energies and his talents in trying to accomplish something when his efforts show such little fruit.

Possibly at times such thought ran through the mind of John Sharp Williams, and possibly these or similar thought had much to do with making him make up his mind to retire from the congressional grind.

He has wrought well for his country. He has added additional lustre to the great name of Mississippi. He has shown himself to be a man who knew things. He has shown himself to be a man who has a breadth of vision and a world grasp of matters and of conditions hardly equaled in the history of our country.

He was regarded as the greatest in a running debate in the Senate. He picked no adversaries; he took them as they came, and they who ran counter to him, went back to their corners lame and limp.

He never played to the galleries. He never fed the populace on honeyed words or phrases. In his discussions in the Senate and before the people of his State, there was never a taint of demagogism.

John Sharp Williams played a joke on John Allen in one of his first congressional races that rather plagued the humorous congressman. Williams was making his second race for congress; his district then ran clear across the State and embraced either Scott or a contiguous county. The Populites were in the hey day of their glory and Williams had one of the most shifty pitted against him. Somehow these Populites stood in mortal terror of Allen's anecdotes. Williams had spoken in the county referred to and had as best he could repeated some of Allen's telling jokes. Later in the campaign, Allen came into Williams' district and made some speeches in his behalf. He visited this particular point and in his speech told the very ancedotes that Williams had repeated which caused some old fellow in the audience to exclaim, "Lar, thought I wuz going te hear sumin; he jes here telling Williams' old stories". When Williams returned to Washington, he told of the incident and it is said that Allen had no come back on the joke.

John Sharp Williams' name will stand high among the Nation's galaxy of great men. Historians will very properly give him a place alongside of Lamar, Jefferson Davis and J. Z. George.

May his fondest dreams be realized in that beautiful home at Cedar Grove. May he be spared many years and let us also hope that he will give the country a book or some writings of his that may serve as a light to his countrymen in the years to come.

ANOTHER OFFICE THAT SHOULD BE ABOLISHED

"We have just a wee bit of advice to offer the State Board of Education. It may not 'take', nevertheless we are going to shoot. We just happen to know that there has been some casting about to place a 'statistican'—that is the big word used in trying to name him—in a job at $4,250 a year at Jackson to figure out the allotment of the million or million and a half dollars of 'floating funds' provided for public schools by the last legislature. Don't need the man. Plenty of men or clerks and stenographers already on payroll to attend to this work which can easily be done in 15 days. Cause of Education will be hurt if the job is created. Mark our prediction. Time to go slow on putting on extra help."

The above appeared in our editorial columns March 4, 1921, under the caption, "Advice—It May Not 'Take'." We wrote the editorial not knowing that our good friend, A. G. Gainey, would be named for the position, but the matter of who was named for the place or who is filling it now, in nowise alters the conditions and the facts. We wrote the editorial because we believed what we then said, and time has served to reinforce the position we then announced.

Personally, we are fond of Gainey. He is our personal friend. He is capable of filling almost any position in connection with the school work of the State. But as we stated about the abolishment of the office of Supreme Court Reporter, now being filled by Judge Robert Powell, one of our closest friends, personalities aside. We are looking at the proposition from the viewpoint of the general public and in the interest of the taxpayers.

And in passing, it is well enough to observe just here that the public was told when the constitutional amendment was being urged by the public school authorities, that the purpose of the amendment was to authorize the appropriation of funds in order that the school terms in the poorer counties might be increased, and in this particular locality, our neighboring county of Calhoun was cited as an example of a county that needed to have some of this money.

But what do we find since the amendment was adopted and the appropriation made? We find that this co-called "floating" school fund is being appropriated to some of the richest counties in the State. Notably, Hinds, Warren, Bolivar and others. Hinds County got under the apportionment the last school year something over $20,000 and the other counties named got similar amounts.

We cannot see how our friend Gainey is needed when we find that he is so much on the run to different parts of the State making speeches, while the taxpayers are taking care of his traveling expenses.

We repeat what we have heretofore said, the time for plain speaking has arrived. Let the sunlight of publicity shine in so that what is inside may be seen by the tax payers who are on the outside.

SOME OTHER THINGS THAT SHOULD BE ABOLISHED

Among the things that should be abolished by the next legislature, and which we have not heretofore mentioned, is that of State Bond Attorney. He is paid a fee of not less than $25 nor more than $100 for any set or issue of bonds issued by any county or municipality in the State. We are not sure, but it is our impression that he gets a stated salary outside of that. It is a useless office regardless of what is paid.

Then there is the Pardon Board, the vermiform appendage of the State government. The Pardon Board permits the governor to masquerade and do something that he would not dare do openly. The Constitution does not provide for a pardon board, and its recommendations have no binding force.

There are some salaries, a part of which should be abolished, at some of our State educational institutions. For instance, we see no reason for paying a secretary, just a plain, ordinary business officer, a bookkeeper if you please, either $3600 or $4500. The office of secretary at these institutions, with the exception of the A. & M. College where the salary was $2400, did not pay but $2000 until the Russell administration came into power.

We can see no valid reason for a board to examine lawyers for license. That had heretofore been done by the chancery judges without any additional cost to the taxpayers. This "sop" was created under the Bilbo administration.

Fewer offices and greater efficiency should be the slogan in Mississippi.

WALKER WOOD FOR SECRETARY OF STATE

Grenada County has a neighbor, Hon. Walker Wood of Winona, who just a few days ago announced his candidacy for the office of Secretary of State.

Walker Wood is regarded as one of the best newspaper men of the State. He is a hustler at whatever he undertakes. He is a man of ability. He knows how to do things. He has a wide acquaintance and it may be put down as certain right now that he is going to be a very strong factor in the race.

Wood is by nature an accommodating man. He is true and loyal in all things. He is honest, and, if elected, will make a highly satisfactory Secretary of State.

Without in the least reflecting on the excellent gentleman now holding the office, we feel sure that the average voter, who stops to think, will agre that he has had the office long enough. He was appointed over 20 years ago by Gov. Longino. He succeedd his father as Secretary of State, hence it does seem that it is hardly fair to allow one family to keep the office indefinitely. It is sound Democratic doctrine to pass the offices around.

The old idea that "nobody else can fill the place" satisfactorily has long ago been thrown into the junk heap. The people have learned that in these clerical jobs any person with ordinary intelligence can fill them.

Mr. Wood states that he is going to make a campaign that will cover every county in the State. If he is elected, he can be counted on to make an official that will be fair and just to all and one who will attend strictly to the duties of his office.

TOM HEDERMAN WOULD MAKE A GOOD GOVERNOR

While it is too late to get into the race for Governor with any hope of success, we want to take this opportunity to say that T. M. Hederman, editor of the Clarion-Ledger, would make a good governor. We have no idea that Mr. Hederman would entertain even the thought of entering a State campaign yet it is well enough to point to such splendid men as he and to know that they are battling for cleaner politics and for that standard of democracy in Mississippi that was uppermost in the State some years ago.

Hederman has made a success in business. He is a brilliant editor. He is adding to the long and splendid record of the Clarion-Ledger those trophies that are always coveted by the man who is devoting himself conscientiously to his task.

If he were made governor, he would apply that business judgment, which has enabled him to take over the Clarion-Ledger and permit its former owner and editor, Col. R. H. Henry, to retire. He would do a lot of weeding out in abolishing unnecessary jobs, and would make the State an able, clean and faithful chief executive.

Possibly at some other time, Tom Hederman may decide to throw his hat into the ring and give the people of the State an opportunity to elect one of its best and most successful newspaper men to the office of governor. Hederman is a dynamic force in whatever he undertakes.

The hearts of the people of Mississippi are alright. The people are ready to respond to a leadership that will give greater efficiency in government and that will tend to stabilize conditions and make for surer and better things for the children of the present day. But it is hard to get even on the borderland of these things when the spoils of the office and the lust for "business" is enthroned above the home and the ideals of good citizenship.

The Brooklyn Eagle says: "Our war-time battle cry was: 'Let's go', but our peacetime slogan appears to be: 'Let's gab'." You are wrong, brother. The slogan now heard throughout the land is: "Let's grab".—New Orleans States.

EMINENT BIBLE TEACHER TO BE HERE SOON

The Sentinel has been asked to announce that Mrs. Lillian Russell, eminent Bible teacher of the Southern Presbyterian church, will conduct a Bible course at the Presbyterian church in Grenada March 25-31. The lectures will be given in the mornings and in the evenings. The public is cordially invited. Mrs. Russell is the widow of a former president of the Southern Railroad, a man who was very popular in Mississippi. She is said to be a most interesting lecturer.

Mrs. Percy N. Quinn is in West Point visiting relatives. She left last Saturday, accompanied by her husband who returned home Tuesday.

THEY WERE MARRIED

Mr. L. C. Howard and Miss Claude Lee Lott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Lott, were married Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at Winona by Rev. W. E. Farr of the First Baptist church in Grenada.

These young people took the first train south for Durant but it was left to the irate father of the young lady to set in motion forces that are calculated to give both these young people time to think. A warrant was issued here and a phone message put the officers at Durant wise and in a little while the young bride was taken in custody and returned to her father's home. She is said to be a mere child, only about 15 years of age. The young husband is a son of Mr. Nathan Howard and appears to be about 18 years of age. The bride was at the public school the morning of her marriage. The parents of both the young husband and the fair young bride have consulted and it appears that they are working in harmony about what is best to be done and how best to do it.

NOHL-JACKSON

On Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, marriage vows were celebrated at the Presbyterian Manse by Rev. J. R. Cunningham between Mr. Norman R. Nohl and Miss Irma Isabel Jackson.

Mr. Nohl is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Nohl. He came to Grenada with his father something over a year ago from Sheboygan, Wis., his father being the manager of the bhanch of the Phoenix Chair factory of Sheboygan. He has impressed the community as an intelligent, conscientious, painstaking, industrious and most deserving young man. He has been attentive to business and the devotion between him and his father is beautiful indeed. So it may be truthfully said that he has those traits of character and those elements of true manhood to make a good husband and that guarantee that he will develop into a useful man.

His bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Jackson of Grenada. She comes from a home that has placed the rearing of the children and the cares of the household among the sacred duties, and the amiableness of disposition shown in this young woman and her many other graces of character as well as the brightness of her intellect show that the home training has not been in vain.

The happy pair left on the fast train going north that afternoon for Sheboygan where they will make their home and where Mr. Nohl will fill a responsible position with the Phoenix Chair factory.

The Sentinel joins their many friends in wishing for them life's sweetest and richest rewards.

E. L. BOTELER IN THE RACE FOR SUPERVISOR, DISTRICT 4

By the authority of Mr. E. L. Boteler, The Sentinel is placing his name before the voters of district 4 as a candidate for the office of supervisor. Mr. Boteler was reared in south Mississippi. He came to Grenada County about ten years ago and became a citizen of district 2, where he made one of the splendid women of that part of the county his wife. Some four years ago, he was offered without any solicitation on his part, a place in the Bank of Commerce, and had disaster not already foreshadowed that institution, there are many who believe that Mr. Boteler would have made it a success.

Some two years ago, he purchased a farm in district 4, and is actively and energetically at work on that farm.

Mr. Boteler enjoys the business confidence and the esteem of all who come in business contact with him. He is known as a man who will keep his word and as one who plans carefully and who acts cautiously in all things. He is energetic. He is frugal. He knows the needs of the farmers and the general business welfare of the County. If one is to judge by the card which he is publishing elsewhere in this issue of The Sentinel, he has some well developed and well thought out ideas about the duties of a supervisor that will no doubt appeal to the business judgment of the entire County and that will perhaps specially appeal to those in district 4 who may think that county expenditures should be trimmed down.

There is no gainsaying the fact that people are giving attention today as never before to the minutest transactions by legislators and even by the Congress as well as by boards of supervisors touching the spending of money. Likewise there is an awakening throughout the State to the great importance of membership on boards of supervisors.

Mr, Boteler is a clever, obliging man and will no doubt try to see every voter in his district between now and the primary to discuss his candidacy with them in person.

STATE SUPT. BOND HERE

His Opponent Expected To Make School Book Prices Prominent.

State Supt. Education, W. F. Bond, ran up to Grenada last Saturday afternoon from Jackson and returned on the early morning train to Jackson. Mr. Bond saw a few friends here and it is stated that he was talking some politics. In other words that he was feeling out the situation in regard to the candidacy of Prof. B. F. Woodley of Hattiesburg, who just the other day announced that he, too, is a candidate for the office of State Supt. Education.

Mr. Bond was named by Gov. Bilbo in the summer of 1916 to succeed W. H. Smith, who resigned to accept the presidency of the A. & M. College. Mr. Bond was chosen to succeed himself as State Superintendent at the election of 1919 without opposition. He has made many friends over the State and to many the candidacy of Prof. Woodley comes as quite a surprise.

Prof. Woodley was superintendent of the Hattiesburg city schools for many years, but resigned year before last. He stands well as a citizen and as an educator, and from what can best be gleaned, he is going to make the last Text Book adoption, and the prices of school books in Mississippi as compared with prices in some other states, one of the chief issues of his campaign.

HE RANCHED, mined and cow-punched in Colorado, when Cripple Creek and Creed were new and Leadville still a mining camp. He knew at first hand the old Wild and Woolly, and knows and depicts the real West of today—in many sections as picturesque, as humorous, as exciting and as quick on the trigger as ever, for all its flivvers, colleges, curls and scientific irrigation.

He knows horses and cattle. He knows ore. He knows men—men handling one or two guns, as case and occasion may call for. And best of all, he knows how to spin an entrancing yarn of Golden West and Golden Days.

A DECADE OF GIVING

The report of the corresponding secretary of the Methodist committee on conservation and advance shows an increase in total "apportioned" benevolences of $2,282,625 in 1921 to $13,907,745 in 1922, or 500 per cent. The total "disciplinary" benevolences increased from $3,532,858 in 1921 to $18,013,801 in 1922, or 407 per cent increase. It was a decade of giving. The membership of this great organization gave $22.40 per capita. This is a remarkable showing and shows the influence of the principles of the church upon the membership, and the generosity to which the loyal and fervent advocacy of them moves the devotees.

"Secular press publicity has continued power" said the report, "and only religion can create it."—Biloxi Herald.

PETITION FOR PARDON

STATE OF MISSISSIPPI,
Grenada County.

To the Honorable Lee. M. Russell, Governor of the State of Mississippi:

Your petitioners pray that you grant a pardon to Dewitt Grant, who was convicted at the July Term of the Circuit Court of Grenada County in 1921 of manslaughter, and is now serving a five year term in the penitentiary, and assign the following reasons therefor: The proof submitted showed that this boy while driving an automobile along a street of Grenada ran over and killed a boy about 11 years old, that the street was obstructed by vehicles at the point where the accident occurred; that the proof as to whether or not he was exceeding the speed limit or was negligent was conflicting; that he was considered a very careful and safe driver; that the jury which convicted him recommended him to the mercy of the court, as they did not believe he had any criminal intent or was wilfully reckless; that he has always been a good, hardworking negro, and had never been in any trouble before; that he remained in jail for a long time prior to his conviction, and has made a model prisoner since going to the penitentiary; and that we believe that he has been sufficiently punished under the circumstances.

This party was placed on the meritorious list by the Pardon Board at the January 1923 meeting.

Respectfully submitted,

3-2-4t S. A. Grantham.
Father of the child and others.

It appearing that Mrs. Betty Cole was assessed for the year 1922, with store fixtures to the amount of $900 and it further appearing that same is an overvaluation and in excess, and that the real value of said store fixtures is $300.00, and it further appearing that she has paid taxes on the original assessment of $900.00, it is therefore, hereby ordered that the clerk issue warrant to Mrs. Betty Cole to the amount of $16.50, ocuntt's part of said over assessment, against the general fund to refund said erroneous assessment.

Ordered that the Board do now adjourn.

J. H. JAMES,
Pres. Board of Supervisors.

FROM OUR EXCHANGES

A Mean Practice

The Woman Voter does not want to assume the role of a critic and fault finder. We do not like to print the things that cast an unpleasant reflection on our State and people but we earnestly believe that publicity is the greatest and most effective way of remedying public evils.

Our attention has been directed to a practice that we think is neither honest, fair nor right. For instance, in recent years, it has been customary for the administration to solicit campaign funds from the employees of public institutions. The officers of a state institution act as spokesman or agent for the administration. When campaign funds and other expenses are running low these officers not only suggest that it would be well for the employees to contribute to certain causes or campaign funds but specify the amount of this tax or contribution. The employees know if they fail to comply they will be in disfavor thereafter. In fact, it has been openly charged that certain employees of the state have lost their positions because they failed to meet requests or suggestions of this kind.

This practice is nothing short of extortion and should not be tolerated. The candidate for Governor who does not come out openly and commit himself against this kind of practice should be defeated.

We also hope that the first woman representative in the Legislature will introduce a bill and make it unlawful for any candidate for a state office, or any state officer, to directly or indirectly, solicit campaign funds from a state employee.

In other words, we do not think it is right for employees of the Insane Hospitals, Penitentiary Sergeants, drivers and other employees of the state institutions, to have to contribute a large part of their salary to every imaginable cause ranging from the chief executive's personal trial expenses to the campaign fund of a present candidate. It smacks too much of extortion and it is not a fair, straightforward policy, if not absolutely downright dishonest.—Woman voter.

Expenses Can Be Cut

The Banner is of the opinion that the expenses of this state can be greatly curtailed. It can be done by wise and economical laws passed by the incoming legislature, with the aid of good business officials. And bless pat. the people are gong to place the best in Mississippi in charge.—Belzoni Banner.

The Chronicle-Star hopes that the people of Jackson county will fully appreciate the importance of sending the best and most patriotic men to represent them in the legislature. If the people of each county would send broad-gauged, constructive type of men to the state's lawmaking body, there would be a quick change in Mississippi's standing among the other states of the union. Every county should make effort to have such men offer for the offices, and then it is the duty of the electors to nominate them.—Chronicle-Star.

Practically all our state exchanges are saying in substance what the Chronicle-Star here says, and The Herald trusts that the good seed thus sown will bring forth good fruit abundantly.—Madison Co., Herald.

Dispute As To church

Two men were disputing over their respective churches. One was a Baptist and the other a Presbyterian. Finally one of them appealed to a uassing neighbor and both submitted to him the arguments as to which was the better church." Well, neighbors," he said, "my son and I have been hauling wheat for nearly forty years. There are two roads that lead to the mill. One is over the valley road and the other leads through the hills and never yet has the miller asked 'which road did you come?' but he always asks 'is the wheat good?'" —Ex.

Churches In Business

When a church or denomination steps into the commercial world and solicits trade in the printing business or any other kind of business, setting itself up as a competitor with other concerns, it is commercializing the church, and has no right to call upon members of the church for donations to sustain or help its newspaper enterprise. We love the church and we love the periodicals published by the plants it owns, but we draw the line on them when they come into our territory and solicit printing. It is alright to publish their own literature have a book and stationery store in connection with their plant, but it is all wrong to enter the commercial world in the name of the church.—Belzoni Banner.

Thinks Well of Thomas

The Grenada Sentinel continues to urge that Mr. J. T. Thomas of that city is the proper man to choose as Mississippi's next governor. While we believe that Mr Thomas possesses all the qualifications with which the Sentinel credits him, yet the fact remains that men of his type rarely ever obtain political preferment. The average voter inclines to the support of a practical politican, and those who want honest, capable men in office are practically reduced to the necessity of supporting those whom they regard as the most honest and capable of the practical politicians in the running.—Madison Co., Herald

Gov. Russell is out in a letter urging the faithful to line up with Franklin for Governor, intimating that Franklin is his candidate. If Franklin ever had a chance to be elected this should kill it. Carrying this Chinese stinkpot of politics on his shoulder is more than we figure the stomach of any politician is capable of.—Sunflower Tocsin.

The denial of some of the candidates that they are Vardaman-Bilbo-Russell candidates, now that the people have disapproved of that faction, reminds us of the story when the skunks and polecats once divided. They were all skunks once but a split occurred and the bolting faction decided to call themselves polecats, and when one of the former saluted one of the latter as Mr. Skunk he objected and said he was Mr. Polecat. That might be true, said the skunk, but you still have that same old smell about you.—Sunflower Tocsin.

Stranger, meet

Three knights of the restless foot,
Three guardsmen of the range,
Three stars of the Three Star ranch.

Mr. Sandy Bourke, the gentleman with the curly dark brown hair, the broad shoulders and the well-strung frame. "Sandy" refers to his grit. You'll do well to remember that and not provoke him.

Mr. Soda-Water Sam, his friend with the enormous drooping mustache, suggesting the horns of a Texas steer, inverted. He seems sad, but is only shy—except with a gun. His nickname is satirical.

Mr. Mormon Peters, the gentleman in the chair, now a bit stout for saddle-ease. He's not too high-stomached to be high-spirited. And the ladies are strong for him, as you might gather from his monicker.

A SPLENDID LOT OF MEN AT BROWN'S MILL

Those in Charge Valuable Additions to the County.

Grenada County very properly takes pride in all of her business enterprises. The coming of good citizens into any community is a matter that always pleases other good citizens.

The writer has had occasion to get to know a number of the gentlemen who are in charge of the Geo. C. Brown and Company saw mill nearly three miles north of Grenada. Particularly has the writer got to know rather intimately, Mr. H. G. Thiel, the manager of the plant. He is a high class gentleman and stands for those things in society and morals that go with thoughtful citizenship, and are characteristic of the man who thinks about the future for his family and particularly for his children.

Outside of the big enterprise, Grenada and Grenada County are indeed fortunate in these gentlemen who are at the head of this enterprise. Mr. W. H. Lewis, general timber purchaser, has been in Grenada for a number of years and has thoroughly established himself in the confidence and the good will of the community. He and his splendid family are valuable additions to the social life of Grenada.

The Sentinel takes pleasure in making this voluntary statement about this big enterprise and about these gentlemen, not because they need bolstering, but because it feels that it is due them, and because it desires to commend this enterprise to the favor of the good people of the County.

AN UNUSUAL ENTERTAINMENT

One of the most unique and interesting parties of the season was given at the home of Mrs. H. W. Baker last Thursday afternoon, March 8th. It was the eighty-second birthday of her mother, Mrs. M. C. Gentry. Quite a number of guests enjoyed the gracious hospitality of these elegant ladies through the afternoon. The unique feature of the company was that each shared Mrs. Gentry's pride as a grandmother.

One would have needed to be reassured on this subject had the enthusiasm and youthful spirit of the guests been noted. Through the afternoon many interesting and novel forms of entertainment were indulged in. One was the telling by each of the meeting her lover and the proposal. Perhaps the most interesting of these was Mrs. Gentry's description of her first meeting with her husband of later years on a stage coach in Georgia during the Civil War, and his waiting and watching for a whole year until he saw her again, after which developments were according to Cupid's art.

Then each grandmother was asked to tell some witty saying of her grandchild. Needless to say these bits of child philosophy were delightful and filled the grandmother with a glow of pride and joy.

The refreshments consisted of angel food cake with fruit gelatine and whipped cream. The cake was made by Mrs. Gentry herself, and was decorated with eighty-two candles. Quite a number of pleasing gifts were brought by these friends.

Amid a host of good wishes for her continued happiness and many more birthdays to follow the guests bade Mrs. Gentry a reluctant goodbye, voting Mrs. Baker a most charming hostess.

UNJUST TO COUNTRY PRINTING OFFICES

ATTENTION UNION MEN

We are going to the polls this year 100 per cent strong to vote for OUR FRIENDS for election. In order to do this every union man in the city and state must be "paid up" on the tax books.

There are approximately two thousand voters in the city of Jackson who carry a card of some organization, including the wives and other members of their families eligible to vote.

Pay your poll tax—See how the candidate stands toward your organization. If your candidate has not the Union Label on his printed circulars ask him the reason. But by all means get straight with the poll tax man, and other taxes due, even if you have to borrow the money to pay them.

Many of the men of our ranks have already paid their taxes but there are a few left—these men should be made eligible to cast their vote even if the remaining members should pitch in and pay their taxes.

We are going to ring strong this time and our friends are going to receive our votes. Demand the label and have a talk with your candidate.

The following shops carry the Union Label: The Issue Publishing Co., Premier Printing Co., The Togerson Press, The Clarion-Ledger, Liles Printing Co., The Monday Morning Leader; The Brandon News, Brandon Miss.; Birdsall Printing Co., and Yazoo Sentinel, Yazoo City, Miss.

Act today—Don't Delay.

Demand this Label: Allied Printing, Trades (Union Label) Council, Jackson, Miss.

The above was published in a Jackson paper several days ago.

This paper and its editor has always had the kindest feeling for union labor. Hence we regret that such radical instructions should be issued to the union people of the state. It is nothing short of boycott of the country offices that do not employ union printers, because the men working in the country shops in many instances do not want to pay dues to the union as they would have to go to Memphis or Jackson to affiliate with the union and receive the benefits it offers, others know nothing about the union as they were reared in the towns where they are working and were taught the printing business in the offices they are working in. Most of the country offices pay union wages and conform generally to the rules promulgated by the union regarding working hours, etc., but because their men are not carrying union cards they are to be boycotted. We do not think this is fair to the small office.

Personally the editor of this paper believes that all laboring men, farmers and business men should organize to protect their respective interests, but we do not believe they should be radical or unjust to any one and especially to those that are not opposing their interest. We know a large number of union men and we feel confident that the above will not receive many of their endorsements or that of the people, for it is a gross injustice to the country printing offices.

What if every newspaper and printing office in the state that are not using the union label for the reasons stated, issued a statement that they would not support any man that used the union label, then things would be in a mess and a number of good honest men and women would suffer who had no part in the unjust condition brought about by the Printing Trades Council of Jackson.

"Laboring Man" in a communication in last week's issue of The Times points out the danger in such a policy as laid down by the Allied Printing Trades Council of Jackson and clearly answers the mandate in the following:

"The precedent that is sought to be established by the Jackson Allied Printing Trades Council is most dangerous. If they can demand that a certain label be used, then why not the farmers, the merchants, the bankers, the lawyers and others be allowed to get together and say they will vote for no candidate whose card and other printing does not bear a label favorable to their calling? The only label that should be demanded of the candidate in this campaign is the one of competency, honesty, sobriety and a moral character above suspicion."—Winona Times.

ANOTHER MAN SEEKS OFFICE OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY

The Sentinel has been asked to place the name of Mr. Clarence E. Morgan of Attala County before its readers as a candidate for the office of district attorney.

Mr. Morgan is the partner of Mr. John Allen, formerly district attorney of the district, and it therefore may be assumed that he is not undertaking the campaign without having thought over carefully and conscientiously the duties and the obligations of this very important office.

To properly serve the people as a prosecuting officer, one needs to be an A1 lawyer. One of the crying demands of the hour is better law enforcement and a stricter observance of the law. Those charged with violating the law are usually backed by able and astute counsel, it is therefore all the more important that the interests of the public should be looked after by an able and skillful lawyer. The breaking down of the courts, flimsy legal pretensions and careless and inefficient prosecuting officers all over the land, are coming in for more discussion by the press and by leading men generally than ever before.

Mr. Morgan's association as a law partner of Mr. John Allen is a good testimonial to him. He has a card in The Sentinel which speaks for itself. The brief history he gives of himself is pretty good testimony that he is qualified by age, by training and by experience for the office which he seeks. He will no doubt utilize the time between now and the primary to present his candidacy to the people of the district.

JESSIE W. WHITTEN A CANDIDATE FOR SUPERVISOR

Mr. Jessie W. Whitten has asked The Sentinel to place his name before the voters of District 4 as a candidate for the very important office of Supervisor, and as a guarantee of what he will try to do and of the character of service he will render, if elected, he offers the record of his life and what he has done as a neighbor and a citizen, and the confidence reposed in him by his immediate neighbors and those who know him the most intimately.

Mr. Whitten was born and reared not far from Cascilla, in Tallahatchie County, and not many miles from where he now resides. He comes of a family noted for its probity and integrity of character, and the record of good progenitors is a splendid testimony to what any man really is and what he intends to try to be.

Those who know Mr. Whitten best say that he will keep his word absolutely and that he will stand "hitched to the post whereunto he hitcheth himself". And in this day of loose talking, and when it seems that one's word is too often lightly regarded, it is more than creditable to a man that he will keep his word.

Mr. Whitten owns a nice little farm a few miles north of Tatum. He has shown a considerable interest in the neighborhood school and in community affairs in general. He authorizes The Sentinel to state that he fully realizes the enormity of present tax burdens and states that, if made supervisor, he will vote and use his influence to see that expenditures are cut down and that the County's affairs are run on less money.

Mr. Whitten is a kindly natured man. He would much prefer to do one a good turn rather than to be compelled to refuse. He is genuinely sympathetic, and if made supervisor, the people of his district may count on him to render the very best service of which he is capable.

NEW CANDIDATE FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

To the Voters of Grenada County and the Fifth Circuit Court District of Mississippi.

At the earnest solicitation of my friends, I have concluded to become a candidate for the office of district attorney for the fifth circuit court district of Mississippi and I sincerely solicit your support and influence.

Should you see fit to elect me to this most important office, I will assure you that I shall constantly, conscientiously and diligently perform the duties of the office to the fullest of my capacity; I will prosecute each and every case that comes into my hands in this office without fear or favor, and try by my work to make the district and State a more desirable place within which to live.

I will give the grand juries of the counties of the district all of the assistance I can in ferreting out the crimes of the counties, and bring them before the bar of justice.

I was born and reared in Attala County, have lived there all of my 37 years, attended the common schools and the A. & M. College of Mississippi, and took law at the University of Mississippi, practiced law in Winston County, this District from July 1915 until March 1916, and at Kosciusko from then until now where I am now engaged in the active practice of the law, and I feel that my experience and practice qualifies me to fill this office.

Yours very sincerely,
CLARENCE E. MORGAN.

WHITAKER WITHDRAWS

To the Voters of Beat 5:

I entered the race for Supervisor against my personal inclinations, and, now, since so many worthy and well qualified men (older in years and riper in experience than I) have offered themselves, I feel that the country is safe and that I may retire without prejudice to myself, a thing which I hereby do; not, however, forgetting to thank the many who, voluntarily, offered their votes and influence.

WHITE WHITAKER.
Holcomb, Miss., RFD No. 1, March 12, 1923.

MRS. J. P. BROADSTREET GETS ARM BROKEN

Mrs. J. P. Broadstreet was standing on a step ladder Monday adjusting some window shades and lost her balance and fell with the result that one of her arms was broken. While the injury was very painful at first, the broken parts were adjusted promptly and she is getting along nicely much to the delight of her many friends.

"GETTING BETTER AND BETTER EVERY DAY"

It is claimed for the Spotless Dry Cleaners that it is getting better and better prepared in every way every day to serve the public. This enterprise has an ad in this issue of The Sentinel which tells of buying a machine for new work and for adding still better equipment. Mr. Murray, the proprietor, is an excellent gentleman and deserves much credit for the success he has achieved with this enterprise.

LITTLE DEEDS

Be careful of the little deeds you do.
For oftentimes they echo back to you
Across the years.
The tiny note you sent one sorry day,
The coin that helped the beggar on his way;
Ah, always take time to stop and say
The word that cheers!

Perhaps some little deed may bring you fame.
Perhaps the world will learn to love your name
Because of tears
You dried for others. And when life is through,
Perhaps the little deeds you, thoughtless, do,
Will be a glowing monument to you
For countless years!

—Margaret E. Sangster, Jr., in The Christian Herald.

Experience and Equipment is a Necessity

Fifteen years as a cleaner and modern up to date equipment with service and quality has put the Spotless in the minds of thousands. We have lately installed a dusting and deodorizing machine and now have one more machine on the road. This will put us in the best shape for spring work.

"Opportunity Knocks But Once"

Is Taking out a Life Policy a Matter of Business Or One of Sentiment?

Do you not figure on the cost when you go to buy Bonds, a Farm, a suit of Clothes or anything else? Then why not exercise the same business judgment about taking Life insurance? Safety, age and the character of the Company counts for much in taking out Life Insurance. The Aetna Life Insurance Company began business in 1850 or 73 years ago.

We insure from 16 to 70. The Company has recently reduced rates on many important forms. As an illustration, we quote a few rates below on Term, Ordinary Life, 10, 15 and 20 Pay Life contracts, also 20 Year Endowment.

Age	One Year Term	7 Year Term	Ordinary Life	10 Pay Life	15 Pay Life	20 Pay Life	20 Year Endowment
16	7.79	9.20	12.43	32.26	23.69	19.51	39.95
20	7.94	9.39	13.48	34.23	25.15	20.72	40.08
25	8.22	9.77	15.10	37.13	27.31	22.53	40.26
30	8.61	10.30	17.19	40.61	29.91	24.71	40.61
35	9.23	11.12	19.91	44.78	33.05	27.40	41.38
40	10.17	12.48	23.67	50.43	37.37	31.14	42.82
45	11.73	15.03	28.90	57.68	43.11	36.29	45.26
50	14.79	19.88	36.43	66.20	50.14	42.86	49.17
55		28.68	46.32	76.16	58.81	51.35	55.23
60			59.15	87.89	69.75	62.59	64.42
65			80.50	106.40
70			114.10	131.70

We also write an improved Disability clause, which pays for partial disability, also Double Indemnity clause. Policy Doubles in event of death by accident.

The Aetna is the largest Company in the world writing both participating and non-participating business, and we are in a position to give you 100 per cent service.

Think it over and give us an opportunity to prove these statements. Let us protect you against old age, let us aid you in caring for your family when you are unable to care for them or when you have passed away. The Aetna will protect you against accidents.
